

14. 3. 5

6. 1. 11

5. 12. 11

1848

A13

per favour of
Mr. Wm. Haydon

Mr. Julius Mott
at Mr. John Chatfield's, Timber Merch.
Back Hill Hatton Garden
near Blackfriars bridge London

13. 13. 5
14. 10. 3
14. 11. 3 1/2
14. 3. 5
14. 10. 3 1/2

5. 0. 0
3. 9. 0
4. 0. 1/2
5. 0. 0
5. 19. 6 1/2

8/11/48

My worthy brother

The last time I wrote was by Mr. Palmer, to whom you hold forth, & attention when in London, as created the highest Ideas, that gratitude could bestow in my breast — he speaks very highly of you as also brother Samuel.
I have, again, I request you to make use of that simplicity of manner, which ever stamps
the character of the Gentleman —

My worthy friend Mr. Wm. Haydon, who will deliver this to you by way of an introduction (for he is a stranger to London although a native of that city) and believe me, that any attention paid to him will be gratefully acknowledged by a brother whose love, to you all in England, time never can diminish, —

The packet being ready to sail & business
extremely urgent, I cannot by this opportunity
answer the letter I last received from you as I wish neither am I at present in that proper
state necessary to the subject. — I have written to Uncle Robert by the same friend, & as he is a

The packet being ready to sail & business
extremely urgent, I cannot by this opportunity
answer the letter I last received from you as I wish neither am I at present in that proper
state necessary to the subject - I have written to Uncle Robert by the same friend, & as he is a stranger in England now - & having accumulated considerable property & respectability in this country
your & their attention at Brighton may when he returns make him my friend & the friend of I assure you, at present I am in want of friends.

to keep me not only from despairing of ever maintaining my present standing in society but from troubles of which you will never know — if you never marry!!

You may laugh, at the address of the Ideas, but 'tis true, advice — I believe me your sincere friend and affectionate brother, (whom I hope you may once more see, even in England —

New York July 12. 1810 —

W. M. P.

N.B. I rec^d by the hands of Mr W. Paterson
a profile of our Mother,!! from Cousin Polly in Virginia home and extremely thankful I am for it, — tell her so.

A13 From William B. Mott to Julious (Sic) Mott, New York, July 12, 1810. Delivered by the favor of Mr. Wm. Haydon to Mr. Julious Mott at Mr. John Chatfield, Timber Merchant, Backhill Hatton Garden, near Blackfriars bridge, London

My worthy brother,

The last time I wrote was by Mr. Palmer, to whom your politeness and attention when in London, (h)as created the highest Ideas, that gratitude could bestow in my breast--he speaks very highly of you as also brother Samuel. I have, again, to request you to make use of that ? of manners, which ever stamps the character of the Gentleman.

(Father does not transcribe that part of the letter, 61)

My worthy friend Mr. William Haydon, who will deliver this to you by way of an introduction for he is a stranger to London although a native of that city), and believe me, that any attentions paid to him will be gratefully acknowledged by a brother whose love, to you all in England, time never can diminish.

The packet being ready to sail and business extremely urgent, I cannot by this opportunity answer the letter I last received from you as I wish, neither am I at present in that proper state ? to the subject--I have written to Uncle Robert by the same friend, and as he is a stranger in England now--and having accumulated considerable property and respectability in this Country your and their attention at Brighton may when he returns make him my friend still firmer. I assure you, at present I am in want of friends to keep me not only from despairing and even maintaining my present standing in society, but from troubles of which you will never know--if you never marry!!!

You may laugh at the oddness of the Idea, but 'tis true, adieux--and believe me your sincere friend and affectionate brother (whom I hope you may once more see, even in England.)
WBMott

New York July 12 1810

NB I received from the hands of Mr. W. Palmer a profile (silhouette ?) of our Mother!! from Cousin Polly in Birmingham and extremely thankful I am for it, --tell her so.